Please join UCS and participate in a community conversation about human service needs and solutions in Johnson County. This is a unique opportunity to come together with representatives from various community sectors who care deeply about the future of our community.

The morning kicks off with a panel of leaders from the education, faith, human service, funder and business sectors discussing challenges and opportunities facing Johnson County and the importance of cross sector collaboration, moderated by Steve Kraske. During the session, attendees will participate in visioning discussions around a vibrant Johnson County and the roles each sector can play in strengthening our community's residents. The event concludes with a panel of elected leaders sharing the growing role local government plays in addressing health and human service needs moderated by Elizabeth Alex.

UCS has spent the past 50 years bringing community members together to plan and envision a strong community. Navigating the Future* expands UCS' annual Human Service Summit to a community-wide conversation about current and future human service issues that impact all aspects of Johnson County. Don't miss this opportunity to share your ideas about how to help our community and its residents thrive.

UCS' Navigating the Future will be one of the first public events held in the new Johnson County Arts & Heritage Center. Special thanks to our event host, Johnson County Government. Programming for this event is supported through funding from the REACH Healthcare Foundation.
